What Do People Say About Direct Selling Edge?

I went to another company's conference last spring. I learned more in the first two hours of this conference than I learned in two days with the other one. The content shared was detailed and specific. I now know how to proceed with our company.

I came to this conference two years later than I should have. Had I come two years earlier, I'd have saved over $100,000 and two years.

What a great group of speakers! Jay Leisner is a great teacher and has a strong, experienced perspective on Direct Sales. I learned a lot from Kevin Grimes and Jeff Jordan that I needed to learn. Scott Burnett and Troy Dooly were very inspiring and personable. Donna Marie Serritella was a perfect afternoon speaker to keep us engaged and interested. I also enjoyed the experience to be able to ask everyone questions afterwards. Thank you!

I was amazed at the information. I thought it was going to be a broad stroke event to get you with different vendors. I was very surprised to see all of the targeted topics, how in depth they went into discussing very important issues, for anyone who's considering getting into the MLM business as a startup company. It's one of the best conferences that I have ever been to.

The conference was jam-packed with practical information on how to start and improve a direct sales business. Thank you very much for putting out such good training sessions and value. We appreciate it!

What a wonderful two days! So many things I hadn't thought of and the things I thought we were "good" on turned into my biggest eye-openers. I look forward to the relationships with this exceptional group of speakers/professionals.

I've been in the profession for 13 years and learned a lot. This direct selling school was presented by experts whose knowledge you can trust and who genuinely care about your success and the success of the industry. These people are knowledgeable and authentic.

Having been at numerous conferences, I have rarely attended one where all of the speakers had such great content, passion and energy! If you are considering starting an MLM company, there is no better resource to use like this.

The price of this event is a bargain. I have paid thousands of dollars more to attend conferences that were less informative, less instructive, and less friendly. The information shared, the contacts gained, and the friendships formed with other people in the industry are priceless.

Jay and the group of presenters were excellent teachers, so knowledgeable in their respective areas. We were blown away with the content and would highly recommend this to anyone considering starting/growing a direct selling business.
